The Secretary remained on board about haif an hour and then returned to the Dispatch. THE CROQUET TOURNAMENT.

WAMBOLD FIRST, JACOBUS SECOND, DICKEY THIRD AND MEECH FOURTH.

NORWICH. Conn., Aug. 20 (Special).—A large crowd assembled on Friday evening to witness the struggle of Nambold and Jacobus in the divisional play-off. Wambold had played Meech and won by the most magnificent shot, perhaps, in the tournament, jumping his ball near the stake, over both first and second arches and hirting a half ball exposed at the centre. In the contest between Wambold and Jacobus after a little "monkeying around," each settled down to hard work and long shots were loudly applauded. Jacobus got one ball to rover ship and the other through the centre, coming home, when Wambold captured the balls. He home, when Wambold captured the balls. He left one exposed, an almost corner to corner shot. Its capture gave Jacobus the game. Local interest naturally centred in Dickey and Meech, and it was hoped that two of the four prizes that were to be left at Norwich would comprise at least the first. Jacobus and Wambold, however, tied for first and second, and Dickey and Meech for third and fourth. In the second play off, Jacobus got the balls and ran one rover, and in attempting an easy shot through the centre in over-confidence, slipped, and Wambold became the first prize man of the National Croquet Association and Jacobus the second; Dickey the third, and Meech the fourth. Wambold had a tie on the third prize last year. Jacobus has been second man three times and first man once. He is now the holder of the Horsman mailet and some exciting games may be expected on the New-Brunswick grounds, when he is challenged therefor. The New-Brunswick club has a larger membership than any other represented in the National Association. An open for all tournament may be expected in Philadelphia some time in October.

COMING FROM VENICE TO BE WEDDED.

HER LOVER WAS ONCE HER FATHER'S SERVANT-WHEN TROUBLE CAME TO HER HE SENT FOR HER. About two years ago there lived in Venice a family named Vilmo. The family, which consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Vilmo and one daughter, was said to be wealthy, and their home was surrounded with many luxuries. Catherine, the daughter, was a beautiful young lady who in addition to her personal graces was a scholar of no mean attainments and a finished nusician. Among the servants employed in the Vilmo household was a bandsome young man named Demonico Wagani, who fell in love with Miss Catherine. It is said that the young lady herself was by no means averse to the attentions paid her by the handome servant, but owing to the great inequality in their social rank, it was simply impossible for her some servant, but owing to the great inequality in their social rank, it was simply impossible for her to receive his addresses, and she was obliged to treas him as became his station. Wagani was unable to hear this long, and finally he came to this country. He obtained employment in an Italian bank in Centrest, and was soon on the road to prospectly.

In the meantime mistortunes fell thick and fast upon the Vilmo household. The head of the family became involved financially and finally lost all that he possessed. The blow was more than he could bear, and shortly after his ruin he died, leaving his wife and daughter absolutely penniless. The story of their mistortune recently came to the knowledge of Wagani. He immediately wrote to his former mistress telling of his love for her daughter and declaring that if they would come to this country he would furnish them with the means to do so and would take care of them when they arrived here. His offer was accepted, and yesterday Mrs. Vilmo and Catherine arrived at Castle Garden in the steamship Gottardo from Palermo. Wagani was on hand to meet them and could scarcely contain himself in his excitement until the passengers were landed. As soon as he saw them enter the Garden he ran toward them and greeted the young woman with Italian warmth. Miss Vilmo, who returned his welcome in much the same manner, has regular, pleasing features and a graceful form. She has the dark hair and olive complexion characteristic of Italians and has an air of refinement which contrasted strongly with the manners of the other Italian immigrants. Both she and her mother were well dressed and looked out of place. They left the Garden with Wagani, who will shortly marry the young lady. In the meantime she will support herself and mother as a teacher of music.

NEWS OF THE WEEK FROM BERLIN. PERSONAL AND POLITICAL GOSSIP.

MATTERS TO COME BEFORE THE REICHSTAG-A RE-

MARK OF THE EMPEROR ON BISMARCK. Copyrighted, 1887, by the New-York Associated Press Berlin, Aug. 20.-The Reichstag will reassemble at he beginning of November. The agitation begun by the Agrarian party has made a deep impression on the Government, and has resulted in the preparation of a bill which will be submitted in the early part of the session, raising the duties on corn. Another leading measure which will be considered during the session will be a

Emperor William is slowly recovering from an attack of rheumatism. He was well enough to-day to receive verbal reports of State business, and to entertain a small party at dinner. The alarming reports about his condione of which stated that he had had a fit of apoplexy, were totally without foundation. There have not even been any symptoms of a renewal of his old ailment of the kidneys. Owing to the dampness at Babelsberg, however, his physicians strongly urged his immediate return to Berlin, and it was his compliance with this advice that gave rise to the stories of his seri

DR. MACKENZIE'S REPORT ON THE CROWN PRINCE'S

THROAT.

Dr. Mackenzie, the Crown Prince's English physician, has sent to the New-York Associated Press correspondent here a special report of the Prince's present condi-tion. The progress made, he says, is satisfactory, and there is every prospect for a permanent cure of the Prince's malady. On the other hand, it appears from the doctor's report that the curative process will be slow; and that while there is at present no recurrence of the growth in the Prince's throat, it is not unlikely that there will be a regrowth on several occasions before a permanent cure is effected. The most troublesome feature of the case, the doctor says, is the constant disposition to take cold, or rather the predisposition to congestion of the mucous membrane of the larynx, occurring in different parts of the organ; and to obviate this Dr. Mackenzie will recommend that the Crown Prince pass the greater part of the coming winter at Venice of Pegli. He will also advise the Prince to abstain from using his voice as much as possible. The Crown Prince will attend none of the military manusuvres this year.

THE KAISER DOES NOT EAT ALL BISMARCK COOKS. A story was circulated at Gastein, at the time of Emperor William's departure, that in the interview between the German and Austrian Emperors the latter had remarked the profound impression that had been produced upon him by Prince Bismarck's speech in Parliament regarding war scares. The Kaiser is said to have replied: "Bah! It was needless to attach so much importance to it. Bismarck cooks as he wishes, but that is no reason why one should eat everything that is cooked. When I find a dish too strong I strike it from the menu."

PRINCE HOHENLOHE WILL SURELY RESIGN It is reported that the visit of Prince Hohenlohe to the Emperor at Ems has only postponed his resignation of the Governorship of Alsace-Lorraine, as Prince Bismarck, who blames him for the check in the Germanization of the Reichsland, continues to insist upon his re-

A SUICIDE IN THE HOUSE OF REFUGE. UNABLE TO ACCOUNT FOR THE SINGULAR DEATH OF

A LAD OF FIFTEEN. Considerable commotion was manifested yesterday at the House of Refuge on Randall's Island when it became known to the inmates that Edward Crinnen, a lad fifteen years old, who was sent there on September 29, 1886, for stealing a watch, had hanged himself in his room. He was found by the watch man, Jonah Ketcham, when he was making his regular round at 10:45 p. m. Friday, hanging to the door of his cell, No. 14 east, fourth floor.

Israel C. Jones, the superintendent, made a thorough examination of the case yesterday, but falled to find any reason why young Crimen should take his own life. Watchman Ketcham, in his statement, said that he went on duty when the bell rung for the boys to go to bed at 7:45 o'clock. At 8 o'clock he began his regular rounds, and, as will be seen on the "watchman's tell-ta.e," he registered o'clock he began his regular rounds, and, as will be seen on the "watchman's tell-tae," he registered regularly all night long. He said that he passed Crimens's cell a number of times. At 9:50 he went by and everything was quiet and seemed to be all right. About an hour later to wont by his cell again, and noticed that Crimen's snirt was pinned over the door. He poked it away with a little stick and felt a heavy weight. He touched it with his hand and at the same time noticed a small cord fastened to the door. When he opened the door quickly he found the body hanging to the door, the feet touching the floor, the lad's back against the door and his knees bent forward. Ketcham instantly cut him down and felt his pulse, but he was dead.

when Superintendent Jones reached the place he found that the body was cold, but yet limp, showing that the body had not been dead a great while. His father, who lives at No. 52 Lansing-st., Albany, was informed by telegram that his son was dead, and yesterday morning young Crimen's sister and brother-in-law, who live in Newark, were summoned. In the aiternoon his brother arrived from Albany with an undertaker who had a permit from the coroner to move the body. It was taken to the Morgue, and will be removed to Albany as soon as the coroner will allow.

To a TRIBURE reporter last night Superintendent Jones said that he was at a loss to understand the cause for the boy's act. He was fifteen years old and he was imprisoned for his first offence. He was of a happy, cheerful nature, very playful and seemingly contented. He was a good boy, Mr. Jones added, and for the last lifteen weeks he had received a maximum in deportment each week. He was to be di-charged from the House on September 29, and he knew it.

George Harring'on, a companion of the lad, said that Crimen I was in the best of spirits recently.

was to be di-charged from the House on September 29, and he knew it.

George Harring'on, a companion of the lad, said that Crimen I was in the best of spirits recently, and that on Friday night while in the school-room he took out a siring from his pocket (since learned to be the one with which the hanged himself) and jestingly placed it about his neck. Superintendent Jones thinks that probably the lad put the string around his neck thinking to fool the warchman, and that when he learned his weight on it he lost consciousness before he could recover himself. Crimen worked in the stocking factory and had there won the favor and esteem of his overseer by his faithful and diligent attention to business.

A BIG LEATHER LOCKOUT PROBABLE.

COMMISSIONER DONOVAN AND THE MANUFACTUR-

ERS DISGUSTED WITH THE ENIGHTS.

There is every probability that all the New-York shoe manufacturers will combine and lock out their employes until the boycott is raised from the goods manufactured by Hanan & Son, the Centre-at, shoe manufacturers. Florence F. Donovan, State Arbitration Commissioner, came down from Albany yesterday and tried to settle the trouble that exists between the firm and District Assembly No 91 of the Knights of Labor. But he returned to Albany thoroughy disgusted with the District Assembly and the report that he made to the State Board of Arbitration will undountedly be disadvantageous to the Knights The commissioner was in New-York a week ago and had before him John E. Gill, John Foster and John Delaney, of the District Assembly. the strike and against whom the firm has a neary suifor damages for satering into a conspiracy to damage the the business of the firm and for interfering with the employes. The Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association was represented by Abraham Garcide, John Cramer and Charles Ling, the secretary of the association. J. H. Hanan came for his firm. At the previous meeting Delegate (ill was extremely non-committal and refused to answer many of the questious put to him. He gave as an excuse that the District Assembly which had ordered the strike and boycott and of which he was the representative had not had time to talk the situation over.

Time was given him to call the organization together and it met during the week, and it was supposed instructed the representatives how to act. They came, however, to the investigation yesterday apparently as far from any blea of settlement as they were before, and no progress was made. Mr. Garcide asked Mr. Gill H. District Assembly No. 91 was responsible for the boycott, and he refused to answer. The proposition was finally made: "Would Hanan & Son withiraw their suit of Gill would promise to withdraw the boycott?" At this, Mr. Hanan sprang up and said: "Leasnot accept any such means of settlement, I would not be true to mysel or the public if I did such a thing and I will not consider such a thing." Mr. Hanan said afterward that the firm would stand it awhile longer and would not withdraw the suit for any consideration. No decision was arrived at, save disgust on the part of Mr. Donovan, and he will make a report to the commissioners in accordance with the result. An investigation by the commission will probably follow, for the manufacturers threaten a general lockout to support Hanan & Son.

NO CHARTER FOR THE IRONWORKERS.

PITTSBURG, August 20.—The proposed new Associa-tion of Iron and Steel Workers under the auspices of the Knights of Labor has been officially rejected. Charles II. Litchman, the general secretary of the Knights of Labor, in a circular letter over his own signature says that the charter will not be granted, after first bitterly dethe charter will not be granted, after first bittery or bouncing those who have stated that General Master Workman Fowderly signed the charter as applied for by the fromworkers, and that it was in the cuistody of the general secretary. The circular says in addition that all of the gassemblies applying for the new charter are not in good standing; that out of the seventeen assemblies joining in the preliminary organization, only three are square with the General Assembly. Eleven of these assemblies are in Pittsburg. In closing it says when all the laws are compiled with the charter will be granted. This is a big disappointment to the Knight of Labor iron workers of Pittsburg.

The principal question to be discussed is whether the men are to submit to the color-blindness tests as prescribed by the company. This matter, it is understood, will be settled definitely as far as the em ployes are concerned. They will not submit to the examinations in fancy colors. They say the standard colors, red, white, blue and green, are sufficient, and that they are not applicants for clerkships in dry-goods stores.

There are several other grievances, involving the re-moval of certain officials. They are Benjamin F. Bertolet, general dispatener: Samuel F. Newkirk, travelling dispatener; and John Whalen, foreman of engines, all of this city. These men, it is alleged, have not been acting fairly toward the employes. The employes in the various shops demand semi-weekly payments of wages, and the convention will arge this

The men were all furnished with passes and substitutes this afternoon, so as to enable them to reach Tamaqua this evening. Most of the delegates from this city are opposed to a strike, but will be guided entirely by the action of the convention, it is a well-known fact that the Reading company is doing an immense business and a strike would seriously cripple it.

CANADIAN PACIFIC'S MANITOBA RIVAL.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20 .- A dispatch from Winnipeg, says: A message has been received here to the effect that Sir John Macdonald has stated that Premier Norquay has gone down to see him to try to arrange a compromise in connection with the building of the Red River Valley road and settling the difficulties that are so fast leading to another rebellion. It is generally believed here that Premier Norquay is weakening, and the announcement is causing a great feeling of disgust. If he goes back on his record, he will certainly be ousted from the Premiership of the province and be retired from politics. It is expected a crisis between the Government and the Pacific Railroad will be reached in a day or two unless the latter weakens, as members of the Government now say they will run the line despite any action."

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 20,- the Journal's Winnipeg dispatch says: "It was thought that an injunction would be applied for against the building of the Red River Valley road yesterday, but no such request was made. Attorney General Hamilton said resterday that he had instructed the sheriff not to serve the injunction if one was granted."

MURDERED BY A FRIGHTENED BURGLAR. PLEASANT HILL, Aug. 20.—About noon on Friday Major C. C. Dawson, an old resident of this place, was instantly killed by Charles Tabor. It seems that Major Dawson and Tabor had just finished a game of pool and as the latter lost and had no money to pay for it, he asked the Major to settle, which he did. The two then started down the street, when the Major jokingly remarked: "I guess i will have to lock you up." Tabor instantly drew a revolver and fired two snots, which took effect in the Major's breast near the heart, causing instant death. When taken into custody, a kit of burglar's tools was found it Tabor's possession and it is supposed that he believed Major Dawson to be a detect-

There has been growing disastis-faction with the management among the cottagers for some time. Many who has invested in cottages found that their property did not increase is value, as in the case of similar associations. It is also said that the find-ing of a fare "lay-out" during the fire last apring added to the disastisfaction. ANOTHER LETTER FROM DUNN.

ARE ONLY HE AND SCOTT INVOLVED! A BANK OFFICIAL MAKES A STATEMENT IN REGARD

TO THE DEFALCATION. The public interest in the dott-Dunn Manhatian Bank case has in no wise abased. There is a feeling abroad that there is a great deal in the affair which is yet to be explained and that there are mysteries connected with it which those most nearly interested are in no hurry to uncover. Thequestions apperment in every rac's mind are: " Has Dunn got the money safely concealed ?" "Is it possible that poor Scott got less than $20,000 of the large sum which he succeeded in taking from the bank and that Dunn has all the rest?" "Was no one else in the steal but Scott and Dunn?" "Will the bank bring Scott back from London to testify against Dunn?" "Are all the arrests made vet !" A well-known criminal lawyer said yesterday to TRIBUNE reporter that according to his knowledge of the manner in which stolen money is divided, an equal division generally takes place, and that instances where one of the participants in the crime appropriates the whole or much the larger portion of the blunder are rare. He was, therefore, of the opinion that Dunn had not by any means the large sum with which he is credited, but that a good share of the bank's money had gone elsewhere.

sum with which he is credited, but that a good share of the bank's money had gone elsewhere.

"Where I" asked the reporter.

"That is for the officers of the Manhattan Bank and its attorneys and detectives to find out. I understand that after aix months spent on Dann's tracks, for they began watching his movements last March, the bank's detectives were unable to exhibit one suspicious circumstance concerning him. He is a siy dog, you may be sure, and if he has any part of that money the bank will never recover a red cent of what he has. Dunn has probably made up his mind exactly what he will have to suffer in order to keep it, and, if convicted and punished, when he comes out of prison he will not be obliged to worry about how he will get his living. But he hasn't got ail of that money you may be sure."

The reported found Dunn "much as usual, I thank you, sir," when he called upon the prisoner in the Ludlow Street Jail. Mr. Dunn was, in fact, more than ever the picture of conteatment. He was as evidently in the possession of very satisfactory news. All attempts, however, to draw from him anything in reference to nis wheat speculations proved as hereto-iore unavailing. He said that he had operated in the cleavators is of very rare occurrence.

than ever the picture of contentment. He was as unrufiled as a cloudless summer's sky, and was evidently in the possession of very satisfactory news. All attempts, however, to draw from him anything in reference to his wheat speculations proved as hereto-tore unavailing. He said that he had operated in the wheat market with both New-York and Chicago brokers, but declined to give the names of any of them, or to say whether he had been in the long run a winner or a loser, or what the extent of his operatious was. He also refused to say whether he ever held 1.300,000 bushels of wheat at one time as is asserted in his alleged letter, printed below, and he also declined to say whether or not the "W," in that letter referred to W. D. Searls. In March last it is alleged that Duna wrote the following letter to Mrs. Lizzie Scott, wite of Richard S. Scott, the fugitive bank teller, she being then with her husband in London. The "J." spoken of is undoubtedly hirs. Scott's sister. The "J." spoken of is undoubtedly hirs. Sout's sister, Mrs. Jennie A. Searls, the wife of Whittlesey D. DEAR LIZZIE: I received your note from George last Saturday, having been out of the city. I did not expect to aurivity the shock, and that would be proof to you of what I had stated. I did try to release invest from the terrible agent, but was not successful. I cannot write you as I could speak. Every time I think of you I feel to be blowing my brains out. If I had the mency I would not think of faking what you offer, but would turn the whole thing over to you as I always intended I only went into the speculation for the purpose of settling the whole matter, but the fates were against it, and I am now left in a condition of arony and regret that all the money in this world would [not] compensate. I expected that you would come on here, when I would give you proof beyons question that my statement was true. I do not expect you to take my mere naked world on a matter of that kind. I showed J statements covering all, but she, of course, is not versed in matters of that kind. I shall send them to W it you desire. I do not want to trust them to the mail unless absolutely necessary.

W. called to see me about the business last Sunday evening. I did not know he was coming, and as my papers were in New York, I could not show them to him. He went away saying that he die not believe it. Now, I am not only willing but anxious to relieve you from that terrible suspense I know you must be laboring under, and I would like to know what proofs will satisfy you of the truth of my attements. I have made a terrible mistake, and I am in a ondition of body and mind that drives me at times almost mad. I wrote you it commenced laborile under, and I would like to know what proofs will satisfy ou of the truth of my attements. I have made a terrible mistake, and I am in a ondition of body and mind that drives me at times almost mad. I wrote you the which history of the transaction. I think i write you found the whole history of the trunsaction. I think i suit. Write desire. Sorr March 29.
